9. Travel Itinerary and Justification

This is a tax revenue estimation conference which has been organized by the Federation of Tax Adminstrators. This year, the Conference will be held in Jacksonville, Florida. It is suponsored by Massachusetts Department of Revenue.

Key state economists, revenue estimator, and revenue forecasters will provide insights on the direction of both the U.S. and the state economies. State economists/estimators and other experts will discuss innovative tax policy analysis. The organizers will also leverage the academic community's expertise to help state revenue economists/estimators better understand and evaluate tax policy.

This out-of-state travel to the conference is mission critical; we expect to get feedback from other states about their recent tax policy analysis practices, revenue trends, and many more, which are extremely important for conducting our core duties; attached is the program agenda for this year's Conference.
