	EVENT ATTENDED
Describe the event that you will attend.	As the United States shifts its defense posture homeward, safeguarding our people, infrastructure, and economy has become the defining national security challenge of our time. The threats we face today – spanning cyber, space, energy, and critical supply chains – demand not only military vigilance but also the full engagement of private enterprise, through a unified effort that blends innovation, leadership, and resolve. Join us at this year's BENS Eisenhower Award Gala in New York City as we celebrate two leaders who embody that partnership between public service and private ingenuity. General Gregory M. Guillot, Commander of North American Aerospace Defense Command (NORAD) and U.S. Northern Command (USNORTHCOM), who stands at the forefront of defending the homeland, orchestrating military readiness and response against evolving threats. And Jonathan Pelson, a business leader and author of Wireless Wars, who has spent his career advancing the secure, resilient communications networks that underpin both our national defense and economic strength.
Describe your participation in the event.	I will be attending the event as a guest of the host organization BENS along with some of its Massachusetts members. I will be networking with business leaders from the defense sector, as well as other sectors.
